AUNT ADDIE

No, thanks. That shower'll do you just right. But whatever you do, honey, try not to look out the window.

KIM

Why?

AUNT ADDIE

Because it'll pass.

KIM

What'll pass?

AUNT ADDIE

What?

KIM

You said it'll pass.

AUNT ADDIE

Did I?

KIM

Addie.

Addie closes the blinds.

AUNT ADDIE

Go shower, Kim. I'm gonna start on your hair in half an hour.

75 INT. HARTMAN HOME (DINING ROOM) - MORNING

75

Kim marches toward the front door.

KIM

What is gonna pass?

The door opens and Renee enters, hair in an up-do, dress in a garment bag.

RENEE

Oh good, I was just coming to wake you up. How do you feel?

KIM

Like an ocean liner is sitting on my head.

KIM (CONT'D)

(beat)
Is that rain in your hair?

RENEE

It's not rain, it's drizzle.

KIM

How is drizzle different from rain?

RENEE

Rain gets you wet. Drizzle gets you damp.

KIM

And both ruin your hair and your wedding day.

Kim grabs and pulls her by the arm.

KIM

This day just keeps getting more and more perfect. We need to talk.

INT. HARTMAN HOME (KIM'S BEDROOM) - MORNING

76

Renee paces in Kim's room as Kim is close to tears.

RENEE

And that's all you remember?

KIM

That's not enough? What if I'm a stupid tramp who has an affair with her ex-husband the night before her wedding?

RENEE

Who do you think you are, Madonna?

KIM

Did Madonna do that?

RENEE

I don't know. It sounds like something she would do.

KIM

I should be wearing a scarlet T on my shirt.

RENEE

It's an A.

KIM

Mine needs to say tramp.

RENEE

You don't know that anything happened.

KIM

I kissed him. And it's raining just to punish me.

RENEE

Rain is supposed to mean good luck on your wedding day. Like it's showering you with a clean slate.

KIM

Is that true?

RENEE

I don't know. I think I've heard that somewhere but I might have just made it up.

Off Kim's look.

RENEE

You should go talk to Evan.

KIM

I can't. I'm furious with him.

RENEE

I knew I smelled trouble. Evan is like kryptonite to you. You've always been drawn to each other.

KIM

No, it was the liquor and the stress and Jeffrey dropping that bombshell on me. Right?

RENEE

I don't know, Kim. Was it circumstance or chemistry? Only you can answer that.

From downstairs, WE HEAR Eleanor.
